COVID-19 In-Person Event – Recommendations

To ensure the safety of event attendees and staff for all in-person interactions hosted by the Rutgers University Foundation (RUF) and Rutgers University Alumni Association (RUAA), the below policies and protocols are strongly recommended as we emerge from the pandemic and return to in person events and programming.

Pre-Event Communications:

- Customized messaging to alert registrants of any health and safety guidelines included on CVENT registration, event webpage, and email or printed invitations
- Modified confirmation/reminder email to all event attendees that includes messaging on guidelines and a health self-screening
- Draft emails to alert attendees if needing to pivot to virtual or cancel event

Pre-Event Logistics Planning:

- Review the RUAA Charter Groups In-Person Events Policy and familiarize yourself with CDC, NJ state (or your local state guidelines), and university guidelines to ensure event compliance
- Review cancellation policy in all venue/vendor contracts and understand all costs that will incur if event is cancelled or postponed
- When planning an event on campus, use internal vendors associated with the university when feasible (i.e., Rutgers Facilities rentals, Rutgers Dining Services)
- Consider if it is important to have venue security on stand-by to assist, including with guests not following protocol. It is not their job to enforce event specific policy, but they can help reinforce and intervene if needed. Prior to the event's start, work out a signal between you and the security for if you require their assistance.
- Setup and require an event pre-registration to limit the number of walk-ins; plan to have a check-in system on site to track all event attendees
- When considering catering options, plated meals, passed appetizers, and/or stations with servers will limit the number of guest touch points.
- If your event includes a cocktail reception, consider having plenty of guest seating to limit mingling and walking around the room.
- Discuss with your event partners the possibility of cancellation and/or how the event could pivot to a virtual one if necessary. See draft emails to alert attendees about a cancellation or pivot to virtual.

On Site:

Effective 3/10/22, masks are no longer required at events on campus and off.

- N95 masks for event leaders/volunteers/staff
- Disposable masks on site for guests and attendees
- Hand sanitizer at registration and around the event space
- Wipes for microphones that are shared for Q&A and by multiple speakers

- clean podium & handheld microphones before and after each use
- Limit touch points with attendees, including having attendees pick up their own nametags
 - Add additional table between nametags/volunteer greeters for distancing
- Signage for vaccine policy (indoor events, on-campus) and safety measures
 - Signs at registration and as guests enter the event space
- Capture attendee data and limit walk-ins
- Provide outdoor space when available and possible and communicate in the registration and promotional materials if the venue is indoors or outdoors
